The New York Highlanders defeated the Senators yesterday afternoon at American League Park by the score of 4 to 3, in a game that was crowded with good plays and exciting moments. The New Yorks started off as though they were going to make a runaway race of it, but they struck stiff going after the fifth inning and were lucky to finish out one run to the good.

The feature of the afternoon's play was a remarkable catch by "Wee Willie" Keeler, the diminutive right fielder of the Highlanders. The play came up in the third inning. Townsend was the first man up and he hit a long fly toward the rightfield fence. With the crack of the ball on the bat Keeler started on a dead run for the fence, and as the sphere was coming down about a foot from the inclosure he stuck out his left hand and pulled in the ball. He was on a dead run at the time. and after completing the catch he bumped into the fence with a thud. Some years back Keeler made a catch somewhat similar, jumping into the barbed wire fence that was strung along the right field bleachers, taking the ball with one hand. The skin was ripped off his hand then and the play has always been recalled as the greatest in the history of the 7th street grounds. Yesterday's catch was not quite as difficult as his other endeavor, as he had nothing to obstruct his progress. The spectators cheered the game little man to the echo for his catch. bumb Bells, Sweaters, and other accessories of field and gymnasium.

The fifth inning Keeler tried to make second on Elberfeld's hit, but the ball was there ahead of him, and Cassidy gave the little fellow a severe spiking, cutting clear, through the shoe. A mishap to Keeler at this time would be a serious thing for the New Yorks, as he has lately struck his true batting form and has helped his team very materially to stay at the top.

In the seventh inning Dougherty tried to get away with a bunt toward third, but Hill made a most sensational one-handed get away with a bunt toward third, but Hill made a most sensational one-handed pick up of the ball and threw accurately to Stahl, completing the out. Dougherty gets down to first very fast, which demonstrat ed how well Hill and Stahl had handled the ball. Mullen and Cassidy also figured in several splendid plays.

Townsend and Powell were on the rubber for their respective teams, and at the close the battle was a most even one. the New Yorks bunching hits on Jack in two innings, while the Senators got theirs together in only one.

The New Yorkers gave a weird exhibition of how not to play the game in the seventh inning, when the Senators gathered in their first two runs. Previous to that the locals had secured but three hits and had only ciphers to show for their work. Mullen started off with a roller to Ganzel that the batter beat out by fast sprinting, as Powell failed to cover the bag. Cassidy followed with a clean single to right. Donovan swung hard at a high inshoot, the ball striking the ground near the plate and bounding high in the air. As McGuire rushed under the ball and was about to throw to first Powell yelled to him to throw to third, as Mullen had taken a big lead off the sack. McGuire evidently thought Mullen was trying for home, as he turned quickly and made a dive for the plate to shut off and made a dive for the plate to shut off the run. But there was nobody there and McGuire took on a sheepish look as he realized that he had allowed Donovan to reach first, filling up the corners with no one out. Clarke then followed with a high fly to Dougherty and Mullen rushed home. Dougherty made a bad throw to the plate but good backing up held Cassidy on second. Townsend came to the bat and knocked a roller to first that Ganzel gathered in cleanly. Doubtless thinking that three were on bases, Ganzel threw home and Townsend was safe on first. These two Townsend was safe on first. These two-blunders coming so close together started the spectators "kidding" the players and they were given a good roasting for their stupidity. O'Neill followed with a drive to-ward left that Elberfeld and Williams took care of, retiring Townsend at second, but Cassidy scored on the play. Hill closed the eventful inning by striking out. In the eighth inning the Senators scored

In the eighth inning the Senators scored their third and last run when Jake Stahl bunted toward third and Conroy, gathering the ball up clean, threw it badly toward first, the sphere going into the left field stand and the batter going all the way

The New Yorkers started off as though they would quickly drive Townsend to the tall timbers, making two doubles and two singles in the first inning, and scoring two runs. But the Delaware boy settled down thereafter and it was hard picking to get the ball into safe territory. In the fourth the New Yorks made their third .run when Ganzel and Fultz hit safely, the former coming home on Powell's safely, the former coming home on Powell's safe drive ver second. In the fifth inning the Highlanders made their fourth and last run. Keller got a base on balls, but was forced out at second when Elberfeld hit to Mullen. Conroy also got a base on balls, but was forced out at second by Williams' hit to Cassidy. With Elberfeld on third, Williams tried for a bluff steal to second to get the former home. The play worked all right, as Clarke threw to Mullen and Elberfeld by a great slide beat the ball to the plate, the Senators' catcher missing the flying figure by an

Ban Johnson Wants National Commission to Make Schedules.

A special from Chicago says that a movement is on foot to place all matters pertaining to the National and American leagues jointly into the hands of the national commission. President Ban Johnson of the American League is the father of the scheme, and the prospects are bright that it will be adopted at the next meeting of the two leagues. "Base ball has never flourished with so little dissatisfaction to all parties concerned as it has since the establishment of the national commission," says Johnson. "There has practically been no trouble of any kind over the decisions given, the base ball magnates in general feeting that their rights are properly looked after by the commis-sion, and that nothing is done by the men composing it that is not honest, above board and for the good of the game.

"Last year there was much squabbling over the adopting of schedules by the National and American leagues, each accus ing the other of juggling with dates. A repetition of this unfortunate occurrence easily could be avoided by placing the mak-ing of the schedule for both leagues into any complaints on dates come to them for adjustment.

"I also favor placing the matter of arranging a world's championship series in the hands of the commission, all arrange-ments to be made by that body concerning the assignment of dates and the engaging of umpires. I would also have the commis-sion handle any other matters that concern the two leagues, and that now are handled by committees composed of representatives of the two organizations.

"In the matter of a schedule for next season, I favor fewer games than we have had this year. A schedule of 140 games such as we had last season, is quite ample for all purposes. About this time of the year the weather becomes unsettled, the days are short, and enthusiasm is at low ebb. By closing the season about Sentern. ebb. By closing the season about September 29 or 25 the followers of the game will get quite as much base bull as they want, and the clubs will make just about as much money as they do under a longer set of dates."

TAKOMAS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP. Shut Out Wheaton by the Score of 5 to 0.

The Takoma base ball club, playing at home yesterday, wound up its season by defeating the Wheaton team by 5 to 0, thereby winning the championship of Montgomery county.

e proved an enigma for the Wheaton batters, three fifts being all that the latter were able to garner off his puzzling delivery. Back of Brown the fielding was almost perfect, Cunningham, King and Thomas handling cleanly everything that came in their territory, Cunningham's play-

Manager Griffith certainly worked hard on the coaching line yesterday, but his team was lucky to win. Manager Donovan did some clever playing on third in the seventh when O'Neill tried the bluff steal of second. He pulled a throw from Ganzel, and O'Neill landed safely on second, but Hill struck out. Albert Edward Orth, unexpectedly, reported to Manager Griffith last evening at the Ebbitt, but it will be some time be-fore he resumes pitching.

Catcher McManus, once a Senator under the Wagners, has also reported to Manager Griffith to help out McGuire since Kleinow was injured in Philadelphia. Barry McCormick will probably join the Senators at St. Louis next Saturday, Second Baseman Mullin going back to the Athletics. Mullin has done very well with the Senators, and will prove a valuable addition to Connie Mack's band next season.

The calling of games at 4 o'clock worked to a charm yesterday, and everybody appeared pleased at the change. The crowd was a very good one for Monday, and all the "fans" got home in plenty time for a warm dinner.

Thursday afternoon the Senators will stop over at Harrisburg, Pa., for a game with the Independents of that city, and a great crowd will assuredly witness the contests, as little Joe Cassidy was with this outfit last season. Joe was the best shortstop in Pennsylvania last season, and by sensawork became the idol of the Harrisburg "fans."

interest in base ball, being too busy with more important matters. "That offer of mine to give $25,000 two American League stars was no idle dream," says President Herrman of the Cincinnati club. "The money is here, waiting for the right parties. All they have to do is to deliver the goods, and the coin is theirs. The Cincinnati club wants the best team it can possibly get together, and it realizes that there is no better invest-ment, and no better way to get the playing results than by putting out money for the right sort of men." Well, Parent and Bradley would be cheap for Cincinnati at $50,000. A Milwaukee telegram says: "Manager Joe Cantillon of the Milwaukee American Association base ball team received a letter tonight from Vice President Somers of the Cleveland Americans, asking him if he would confer with the Cleveland owners on the acceptance of the management of the Cleveland team next year. Cantillon says he will do nothing now, but will meet Somers in Chicago after the season closes. He is strongly inclined to related in Milwaukee, unless the Cleveland offer is too tempting to refuse." In Cleveland they think Lajoie may be made manager as well as captain.

Capitol Hill Tourney Down to the Semi-Finals.

But three contestants are now left in the tennis tournament of the Young Men's Christian Association on Capitol Hill-Van Hoesen, Lundy and Avery. The last two will meet in the semi-finals this afternoon and the winner will be matched against the first-named in the finals tomorrow. Yesterday afternoon Van Hoesen captured two hard-fought sets from Welch, while Lundy defeated McDonald by good, steady play. In the doubles the match between Sullivan and Lundy and Sweeney and Wurdemann was won by the former pair after an The match in doubles between McDon-ald and Van Hoesen and Hart and H. A. Boblinette was called on account of dark-ness, the first named players having won one set, 6-2. This match will be completed this evening. The consolation matches will also start this evening. Summary of yesterday's play:

Singles—Van Hoesen beat Welch (semi finals), 6-3, 6-3. Lundy beat McDonald (second round). Doubles-Sullivan and Lundy beat Sweeney and Wurdemann, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

FALL TENNIS. Columbia Golf Club's Tourney Had Auspicious Start.

The fall tennis tournament of the Columbia Golf Club opened yesterday under the most favorable conditions, the entry list being large and all the available seating room around the courts being occupied by interested spectators. The playing was somewhat one-sided, but with the weaker players out the contests should be very close hereafter. Darkness put an end to the play before all the events scheduled could be pulled off, and they will be played this afternoon if the courts have dried out sufficiently.

Following is the summary of the matches: J. T. Hendricks beat Arthur Plant, 6-2, W. V. Bennett won by default from Dr.

William C. Hill beat A. B. Duvall, jr. 6-1, 6-2.

H. M. Morse beat Robert Cox, 6-1, 6-2.
P. R. Parks beat Arthur C, Moses in the first set of match, 7-3.

This is the way they play today in the second round:

Taylor against Hendricks, Hill against Bennett, Morse against winner of Parks-Moses match, Hall against Halstead.

PENNANT PRESENTED

FOURTH PRESBYTERIAN TEAM CHAMPION IN S. S. LEAGUE.

Prizes to Successful Nine and to Individual Players-Addresses by Commissioner West and Others.

With the presentation of prizes to the winning team and to individual players in the league, and appropriate speeches by Commissioner West, Thomas C. Noyes, George H. Prevost and others, the base ball season of the Sunday School Athletic Association was officially closed yesterday afternoon on the grounds at Mount Pleasant. Several thousand spectators—"ladles and gentlemen and fans," as President Prevost called them-were present and added to the enthusiasm of the occasion. Everything went off well and left a good impression of the season's sport in the minds of all who were there.

The members of the team of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, the winner in the contest, were seated on the players' bench, while opposite them and facing the spectators' stand sat the presiding officer, the speakers and members of the board of directors of the league. These were George
A. Prevost, president of the league; Walter Fowler, vice president; James West, treasurer; Commissioner West, representing the District government; Thomas C. Noyes of
The Evening Star, Directors Colliday, Townsend and Bolgiano, and Manager Wolhaupter and Capt. King of the winning team.

team. President Prevost opened the program with congratulatory remarks to the win-ning team and an expression of thanks to all who had lent their aid to he sport this summer. He then introduced Commissioner summer. He then introduced Commissioner West, who in a happy speech complimented the players, the spectators and the directors, closing with a hearty expression of the wish that the city would soon provide grounds for the express purpose of ball games like those just brought to an end. The Commissioner presented the handsome American flag donated by Tappan & Co. to the winning club.

The Evening Star Cup.

Mr. Noyes then arose to present the beautiful silver cup offered by The Evening Star Newspaper Company. He began in a vein of good-natured "knocking," directed toward the last speaker, and then, when he had gained the attention of his hearers with this and a funny story, continued by referring to the close relation between the church and the teams and of the benefit this was to all concerned. He congratulated the league and the members of the Fourth's team, to whom he presented the cup, promising at the same time that another such trophy would come from the same source for the victorious club next year.

Capt. King and Manager Wolhaupter received the pennant and cup on behalf of the team. Mr. Prevost then presented the other prizes for the donors. Ballinger of the Gunton team received the handsome banjo offered by Percy S. Foster to the best batter; Kinney of the Foundry was given an order on Parker, Bridget & Co. for a suit of clothes, through the tender made by Mr. Bridget. Kinney was adjudged to have won more games by his twirling than The crowd at yesterday's game made the New Yorkers feel good, as they cheered lastily when five runs went up for the Athletics in the game at Boston. The local "fans" want to see the Highlanders win the pennant, yet they "rooted" very hard for the Senators to beat them yesterday. That's base balk.

The Cleveland owners should give Lajole charge of the team next season, and find out what is in the big fellow. If he can't make good as a manager send him down to Washington, and we will try to put up with his faults as a leader, but use him as a drawing card.

It is the opinion of all those connected with the league this summer that it has been put on a permanent basis, having won its way to the interest of the citizens of the District. It is hoped that next year the sport, which has been appreciated so during the past two seasons, will be better than ever, and in the end greatly increase Washington's reputation as an amateur base ball city.

Reception Last Night.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church gymnasium, 13th and Yale streets, was thronged last night to overflowing, the occasion being a reception tendered the champion base ball team by friends and admirers in the church and congregation. The room had been tastefully decorated for the event with flags and bunting, while a large gas letter illumination bore the motto, "Welcome, Champions." Conspicuously displayed upon the platform table were the Evening Star trophy and the Harris loving cup, the reward of "Labor Day" victory; the pennant presented by the Tappan Company and a large floral horseshoe, with the compliments of F. H. Kramer, to the winning team. The exercises, which were presided over by Mr. J. Noble Hoover, consisted of an invocation and addresses by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. T. Kelly; Mr. Prevost, president of the Sunday School Athletic Asso-ciation; W. E. Andrews, Dr. D. E. Sal-mon, Mr. E. A. Colladay, the church representative on the association board of directors; Mr. D. P. Wolhaupter, manager, and Charles King, captain of the team; Mr. Betts, the official umpire, and Messrs. W. R. Gates and A. B. Kelly. While all these brief addresses were of a facetious and humorous character, each of the speakers took occasion to emphasize the attitude of the church toward athletics and its desire the young people outside its portals. opening feature of the evening, which excited long-continued applause, was the entrance of the team in a body and the seating of the various members in a prominent position. The music was furnished by a stringed orchestra and refreshments were served in the basement dining room.

GRAVESEND RACES.

Beldame Won First Special From Good Field of Starters.

Beldame earned the title of three-year-old champion yesterday beyond the question of doubt when she galloped off with the First Special, weight for age, at one mile and a quarter, run over the Gravesend Behind her finished the stouthearted five-year-old Caughnawaga, the best three-year-old colt of the season, Stalwart; Fred Gebhard's expensive Pulsus and John A. Drake's overworked Ort Wells. who was disgracefully oeaten.

Beldame ran the distance in 2.06, the track being a trifle soft in spots. She was the hottest kind of a favorite at even money, while Stalwart was held at threes. Caughnawaga, the pride of John Sanford's stable, went back one point, to 5 to 1. while Ort Wells receded to 8 to I, the Drake-Gates combination turning away from him for the first time this season. Mars Cassidy sent them away to a beautiful start. O'Neill lost no time in taking Beldame to the front. The magnificent daughter of Octagon-Bella Donna was so full of running that her jockey was pulling at her head as she came past the judges' stand for the first time. Pulsus and Caughnawaga were following, almost two lengths back, with Ort Wells leading Stalwart. On the lower turn Lyne made a bluff to move up with Ort Wells, but he was jammed so that the colt had to bear out. Pulsus clung to the rail, with Caughnawaga, at his right flank, plodding along easily. As Beldame turned into the backstretch she had an adturned into the backstretch she had an advantage of four lengths and was just galloping along under firm restraint. Ort Wells made another attempt to go up, but it was not in him, and he soon dropped back. Pulsus remained the runner-up for three-quarters of a mile when Caughnawaga passed him. When the beginning of the for turn was reached Paldom had. the far turn was reached Beldame had not been let down, and as Odom Caughnawaga, so that he slowly, but sure-ly, cut down the famous mare's lead until was only a length as she rushed into the homestretch, the big crowd thought that there was a chance for the Sanford horse. But O'Neill was merely playing with Odom. That was all, for when the former let out a link Beldame drew away so let out a link Beldame drew away so quickly from Caughnawaga that the latter could not make up the lost ground even under cruel blows from the whip. And so Beldame, in all her majesty, came down to the end, buck jumping, the easiest kind of a winner, by a length and a half. Caughnawaga finisher second, three lengths in front of Stalwart, who was never able to prove a dangerous factor. Then ten lengths a dangerous factor. Then, ten lengths away, came Pulsus, with Ort Wells trailing in last. As Beldame trotted back to the scales the crowd roared in approval, and

James R. Keene's much-talked-of colt Sysonby and his stable companion, Wild Mint, took first and second money, respec-tively, in the rich Junior Champion stakes, for two-year-olds, at about six furlongs. They were held favorites at the prohibitive odds of 1 to 3, but they should have been They were held favorites at the prohibitive odds of 1 to 3, but they should have been quoted at 1 to 20, judging from the way they performed. The Paget stable was represented by Jonquil and Cairngorm, against whom there was 5 to 1 at the close, with John E. Madden's Hot Shot 8 to 1. Sysonby was the leader after the preliminary scramble. Redfern kept him under a tight pull, yet the Melton colt was simply lightning. Wild Mint quickly got an advantage over Cairngorm and this order was maintained right up to the end, where Sysonby was galloping, three lengths before Wild Mint, who, eased up by Shaw, took the place by a length. Hot Shot closed so strongly that it was all Cairngorm could do to beat him a head for third money. Sysonby's time was 1:093-5, one-fifth of a second slower than the best record for the race, and a full second behind the track record, which he could have smashed, no doubt, had he been extended.

successfully Daffo-down-dilly, also show-ing a great improvement over his previ-ous race, looked the winner, with Fox-hunter still pressing him hard, but Veitch, who had been third most of the way with Royelle, came up on the out-side and took the lead before Roberts, the rider of Daffo-down-dilly, saw him. Royelle, therefore, was the winner by Royelle, therefore, was the winner by a length and a half, with Daffo-down-dilly half a length before Foxhunter. The time was 4:58 2-5.

Lady Amelia picked up 125 pounds, and, carrying the bulk of the money at 13 to 10, she won the handicap, for all ages, at about six furlongs, in handy style by a length and a half, after leading all the way. E. E. Smathers' Leonidas. 7 to 2 way. E. E. Smathers' Leonidas, 7 to 2, was four lengths before Gay Boy, 15 to 1, who beat Damon a neck. The time was 1.09 4-5. Divination was practically left at the post.

Thirty-Third, even money favorite, won the fifth event, for two-year-olds, at five and a half furlongs, in a gallop, while Gray Friar, the choice, at 8 to 5, took the last race, at a mile and a sixteenth, from Eagle, 9 to 5, by a length. Five favor-ites were successful, and the crowd, which numbered more than 20,000, went home satisfied with a day of excellent sport.

AMONG THE BIG BETTORS.

Bookmakers at Gravesend Given a Scorching. The most interesting incident in the betting ring yesterday at Gravesend was the performance offered by Ed Tyler, the "Humming Bird," when he took all the money he could lay his hands on, quoting even money against Beldame right up to the moment the cry "They're off" rang through the big pavilion. "The Bird" was positive that Stalwart would beat Beldame.

and the money that the frantic speculators handed to him looked like so much velvet.

"Come on! Come on! Let me have it! Even money, Beldame!" was Tyler's monotonous cry, and the money flowed so rapidly into his cavernous leather bag that it was soon chock full of bills of all denominations. Then it was gathered by an assistant until the latter held a roll of greenbacks as thick as his leg, yet Tyler never ceased to cry for more. When the other bookmakers had left their places to see the race from the lawn Tyler was still busy. "Here's even money, Beldame! Come and get it!" His cry was heard above the tumult and the money was forthcoming with-out a let-up. Then Beldame won and there was a small-sized riot. The mob came rushing into the ring lke a stampeded herd. The "Humming Bird" was hemmed in on all sides. His cashier was helpless, but the Pinkertons soon restored order out of chaos, and the long line of successful bettors extended half way around the betting Tyler, as cheerful as ever, proceeded to make another big book on the fifth race. It was a fact that before the last race was run he was still paying off on Beldame, No-body was willing to make an estimate of his losses, but they were heavier than those sustained by some of the solid members of the Metropolitan Turf Association. Sixty layers did business in the big ring. and all of them were hard hit. Each of the five successful favorites had holiday backing, while there was a clean-up with Royelle in the steeplechase. Mr. Chamblet, by the way, would probably have thrown up his hands if he could have been present when Royelle won. It was about the most glaring piece of in and out running that the steeplechase game has produced this year. E. R. Thomas wagered $10,000 on Lady Amelia, while there was a good Smathers commission on Leonidas, who ran second to the Ben Brush filly. The crowd at large lost heavily on Foxhunter, who was the universal selection for the steeple chase. To back Sysonby was like finding money, and all of the plungers were aboard at 1 to 3. Drake, Gates, Hudson, Paget, Delmel and a few others stood around Jonquil and Cairngorm in the paddock before the race, but it is hardly probable that they Bob Tucker had an unusually large wager on Thirty Third, said to be $7,500. This was the surest thing of the day, and the crowd corched the books from end to end. Lewisohn won $25,600, it was reported, when Grey Friar came home with the last event. The St. George gelding was backed down from 3 to 1 to 6 to at the last moment, the commissioners from the clubhouse un-loading $500 and $1,000 bets at a crack. Leo Mayer laid against Eagle, who ran second and won big money.

GRAND CIRCUIT TROTS.

Columbus Meeting Opened With Three Good Races.

Patchen Maid's victory over Aerolite and Catherine A., in the 2.12 trotting class, was a feature of the first day of the grand circuit meeting on the Columbus track yesterday. The winner was overlooked in the betting, Aerolite being a slight favorite over Katherine A. Angus Pointer outclassed the field of the 2.24 pace, a stake. The talent picked Bedworth, Jr., to win the 2.07 pace, a novelty event. Pauline G. took a new record in getting the first heat, but Lar-rie Ginter got the better of the mare in he next two heats.

A drizzling rain fell at intervals during the afternoon, but the attendance was fair for a Columbus opening day.

Washington Boys Beat Parksides.
